

Navigating Change Management in Finance Transformation Projects

By: Danny Wheeler, AR Solutions Strategy Manager, BlackLine

Originally published in the Credit Research Foundation's publication, Perspective by CRF (Q3 2023)

Embracing automation has become a strategic imperative for organizations seeking operational efficiency and improved reliability for their finance and accounting (F&A) processes. However, digital finance transformation journeys are rife with challenges that can fundamentally shape the ultimate outcome.

A successful implementation doesn't just mean being smart with technology. It's about managing change throughout your organization, ensuring everyone in the team is on board and making the most of software that tackles the real, everyday pain points for F&A.

You need all the pieces to fit, and to do this, companies must take a...
